

YALE'S FOOTBALL SCHEDULE WILL BE SHORTENED TO EIGHT GAMES

TWO OPPONENTS TO BE DROPPED BY YALE

Curtailment of Season May Lose Games for Carnegie and Bates.

VARSITY CREWS AT WORK

Ed Leader, New Coach, in Full Charge of Revising Rowing Stroke.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 2.—Following the spirit and letter of the regulations recently adopted by Yale, Harvard and Princeton urging a curtailment of the football playing season, thereby making the schedule shorter, Yale will play but eight football games next fall. This season Yale had one of the longest schedules in her history, playing ten games and opening the season before college was called in.

That the schedule was too long everybody agreed, and that never again will Yale play an opening game before the first chapel exercises, also everybody agreed. Bates was taken on as early as September 23, which date necessitated a gathering of football candidates the day after Labor Day, not at all in accord with the desire of the university to make less of football and more of the curriculum.

The shortening of the schedule to eight games means the dropping of two of Yale's opponents, but just which ones is not definitely known at this time. The invitation to Iowa for another game in the Bowl will probably be accepted and as West Point will doubtless come again these two early season games can be counted on. Brown will have a date two weeks before the Princeton game and it is expected that Maryland will fill in again between the Brown and Princeton games. Harvard will be played on November 24.

Williams a Favorite.

Bates, Carnegie Tech, Williams, and North Carolina were the "little fellows" on Yale's schedule this year and of these four it is quite likely that Carnegie Tech and Bates may be dropped. Williams is a great favorite here and North Carolina has been on Yale's schedule for several years. However, until the schedule makers have finished their job, there will be no less speculation over the teams to appear in the Bowl next autumn. The schedule will not be announced until after the Christmas holidays and in the meantime Yale will elect a captain, discuss the coaching situation and otherwise be busy over the problem of how to beat Princeton and Harvard.

Board of control is scheduled to meet within a few days, when football probably will be discussed, but it is not likely that any resignation will be received. It is learned on the best of authority that Jones's contract has two more years to run and as Yale wants him to return he probably will.

While football has enjoyed the spotlight for the last two months, the university crew squad has been and is still as busy as any set of Yale athletes has been in many a moon. Ed Leader, Yale's new coach and former coach of the University of Washington crew, is building from the bottom up, installing an entirely new system in the conduct of Yale rowing. In the bestowal of full powers upon Leader at the opening of the rowing season lies a double significance, as the Yale Daily News points out.

Whereas, in the last few years there has been a distinct division of authority, this year the new coaching regime imposed with Leader's methods, is supreme. In the second place the assistant coaches have replaced the bitter feuds of yesterday by unified adherence to a dominant method, and this method is taught from the freshman crews up through the class crews to the university crew.

Herein lies the strength of the system for all crew material from the first day will be carefully drilled in the same stroke and the shift up the scale may be made with no difficulty. Thus great waste of time and energy will be eliminated and a hitherto but skimmed wealth of material will be available for first crews. The fall regatta held two weeks ago gave pretty fair evidence of the extent and value of that wealth.

The university crews have been at Derby or on the harbor all fall developing slowly and steadily their ability to use the new stroke. The progress has necessarily been slow, for to unlearn an old stroke and theory of rowing and to learn to use instinctively the new stroke and theory is a tortuous process.

New Leg Drive for Crew.

Yale's new stroke makes possible a new leg drive and more continuous applied power, but also necessitates a longer slide and carries with it naturally an entirely different theory of rowing. Time and patience are needed for grounding experienced men in the new stroke and in new fundamentals. As to the value of Leader's theory the only criterion is the success he met with in the State of Washington.

Whether his method will be equally successful at Yale remains to be seen. Yale believes that this will be seen clearly and surely in time, perhaps not this season but next, and is willing to give the new method plenty of time to outgrow the effects of the Nickalls and Cordery strokes.

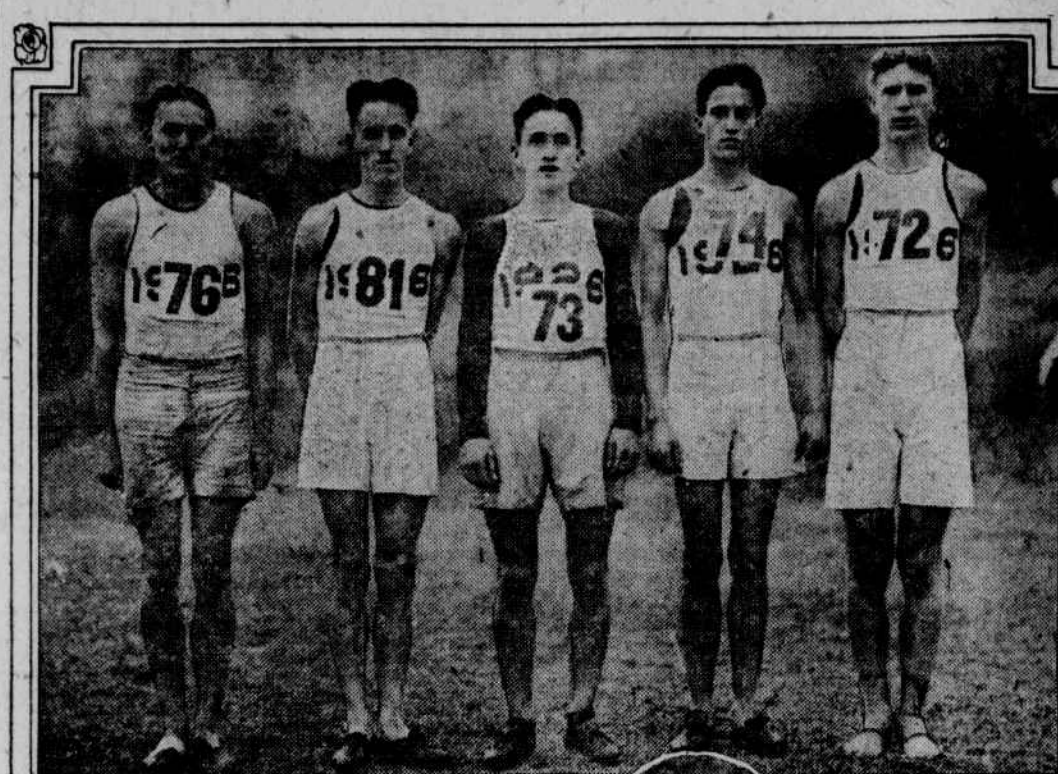

Union

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Dec. 2.—"The only answer which Dr. George H. Derry of the faculty replies when asked for his opinion on the recent story in the college paper to the effect that he may run for Mayor of this city in the Democratic election next fall.

The following games have been added to the Gannett basketball schedule given out by Director Elmer Q. Oliphant a week ago: December 22, Cornell, at Johnson City; February 21, Brown, at Providence; February 22, Wesleyan, at Middletown.

Those who are working out for positions on the college swimming team and show considerable promise include Kenneth Clark and Horace Van Vleet, distance men; Joseph Clark, William LeFavre, Henry Oshel, Angelo English, divers; Nat Bowie, William Latta, Capt. Job Lane, James Brubacher and Joseph Barrett in the sprints, and William Pleutner and William Leonard, plungers.

Columbia

The Columbia-Colgate football clash at South Field on Thanksgiving Day may have been the last contest on the campus grounds. According to present plans, temporary stands will be erected at Baker Field and will be ready by spring for the baseball season.

Mentioning baseball brings to mind the fact that the regular home and home arrangement has been made with the Ithacans. The locals will journey to the up-State stronghold for a game on April 30 and will play a return contest at Baker Field May 11.

According to reports from Hartford Columbia is trying to arrange a football game with Trinity. Trinity's schedule will be shorter next year, so the Blue and White will in all probability not get a date.

The fact that the Lion management is dicker for a date with the Nutmeg States indicates to all intents and purposes that Columbia is trying to change her schedule. What is very likely is that Ursinus will be dropped and Amherst given the opening date, with some other team filling in for the second game.

Tickets for "Hire Education," the sophomore show, will be placed on sale tomorrow in East Hall. The show will be presented on the evenings of Thursday, Friday and Saturday, December 14, 15 and 16, and a matinee will be staged Saturday afternoon, December 16. Thursday will be called "Campus Night," Friday "Fraternity Night" and Saturday "General Public Night."

Quite an array of football talent was present Tuesday at the Blue and White's final work out preparatory to Colgate game. In addition to the tutors of the local outfit there were Chick Meenan, coach of the powerful Syracuse University team; Walter Ekersall, who needs no introduction, and our own George Phil, 18 to 9, during the last week.

Les Conklin has given up forever and anon the conducting of "Off-Hour," performer of the varsity and freshman basketball teams have been barred from participating in the Interfraternity Athletic League games. The Phi Gamma Delta five swamped the Tau Epsilon Phi, 18 to 9, during the last week.

Columbia's cross country team enjoyed a fairly successful season, winning three of the five meets in which the local team part and doing well in the other two races.

West Point

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. WEST POINT, Dec. 2.—This place is functioning again as if nothing had happened to disturb the even course of things. The Army's sweet victory over the Navy at Philadelphia last Saturday will not be forgotten, however, for its treatment in the Quaker City. The Philadelphiaans spared no pains in their efforts to be hospitable. But at East Point the Navy's best known back, Les Conklin, who was the star of the next football contest with the Navy will be played. The matter, it is said, will be discussed in the near future, when representatives of West Point and Annapolis will meet for the purpose of arranging such details.

In Dennis Sullivan, who was elected captain of the Army eleven last Sunday, the cadets have one of the most popular men in the corps. Sullivan is a giant in stature, standing 6 feet 3 inches. He is a cadet sergeant in Company A. This fighting Irishman was one of the outstanding tackles of the season just passed. He is a New York city lad, born in the Bronx, and is now attending Columbia University before coming to West Point.

Dietrich, who was Garbisch's substitute at center last Sunday, has been in the dairy business in El Paso, Tex. He played the pivot position for Army against Yale after Garbisch was hurt. Five different Army backs were credited, in as many New York papers on Sunday, with having made the winning touchdown against Navy. Pat Timberlake did it. Pat is the same cadet who was dropped on the gridiron by the officials in the Yale-Arm game in the Bowl. They found Pat wearing armor plate in his padding.

The Timberlakes have been winning football fame on Army gridirons for three decades. Pat's father was a star halfback on the Army team in the early '90s. When Timberlake, a brother of Pat, won his "A" in football at West Point. He graduated in 1910.

WALTER HIGGINS OF COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY, WINNER OF INTERCOLLEGIATE CROSS COUNTRY RACE AT VAN CORTLANDT PARK.

Navy

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 2.—Four members of the Naval Academy football squad are captains of teams in other branches of sports, and three of them will begin to supervise the work of their squads at once. They will be prevented from taking very active participation, however, by the fact that a rule of the Academy forbids midshipmen from going into training for one sport after three weeks after giving up another.

Warren S. Parr, left end of the eleven, is captain and guard of the basketball five; Guy Winkler, right guard, is captain of the swimming team, and William W. O'Regan, substitute back, is captain of the boxers. The squads in all of these lines are at work and need the services of their captains.

Left tackle Harry A. Bolles is captain of the varsity crew and the only member of the Navy's aggregation still in the academy.

At least two of the players on the defeated Naval Academy football team will have a prompt opportunity of getting back at the Army. These are Parr, captain and guard, and McKee, forward of the basketball team. The former played left end and the latter right halfback against the Military Academy last Saturday. The basketball game will be played at the Naval Academy this season during the latter part of February.

Richard A. Glendon, who coached the Naval Academy crew for the last twenty-one years, will spend some time in Annapolis this spring, acting in an advisory capacity to his son, Richard J. Glendon, who succeeded him as head rowing coach.

Fordham

Fordham, by playing a 30-20 tie game with Mghlenberg last Saturday, finished its season with a record of three victories, two ties and five defeats out of the ten games played. All its games were hard ones and, though five did result in reverses, every one of the ten games played was featured by the do-or-die spirit of the Fordham players.

Lon Healey who, during the past week was elected to the captaincy of next year's football team, should make a very popular leader. Healey, an extremely hard working, yet modest fellow, is well liked. He is at present the only three letter man in the university. Since the days of Frank Frisch, there has been only one other three sport man, Tommy Fallon.

With but one or two exceptions, all the members of this year's Fordham varsity football squad will be eligible for the 1923 eleven. In fact the greater majority being first year men, will be eligible to play three more years. Among these are Joe Manning, Bill Woerner, Paul McDonough, Jim McGough, Barney Fallon, Ray Emead and Bill Ryan.

At a meeting held during the week of the sophomore class, Vincent McPeak, president, resigned his office. McGreg Fitzerald, varsity right end, was chosen in his place. Fitzerald's first official act was to post a notice in a conspicuous place in the gymnasium, threatening the freshmen with many dire things if they did not mend their ways and live up to the rules imposed upon them by the sophomores.

Jimmy Kidder, '21, assistant manager of football for the past two years, automatically becomes manager.

Cornell

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. ITHACA, N. Y., Dec. 2.—Now that the football season is a matter of history, athletic interests at Cornell are centering on basketball, wrestling, hockey and fencing, with indoor track practice in the offing and preliminary rowing practice on the machines under way.

The Cornell baseball team will be chosen by Coach Howard Orner within the next few weeks, or at least before the Christmas holidays. The Ithacans have curtailed their Christmas trip to four games this year, all to be played in this State.

The nucleus of this year's squad consists of three members of last year's quintet, Capt. James H. Luther, right forward and one of the leaders in the league for individual honors, a foul goal shooter such as Cornell has not seen in years; and G. H. Capron and T. H. Crabtree, juniors, guards. C. F. Wedell, who played on the varsity in several games only, is expected to return with an injury, looks like a certainty if his health permits.

A tentative first team has been organized by Coach Orner with the following: Capt. Luther, right forward; Capron and Bernie Meyers, soccer and lacrosse star, at forwards; Wedell and Stone, the latter another soccer star at center, and Crabtree and Byron Jones, the Cornell team loses a number of crack players this year, some of whom have been developed since coming to Ithaca. The list includes Eddie Kaye, the greatest football player Cornell has developed in years; L. C. Hanson, tackle; Harriet Richards, center; W. R. Rollo, guard, and E. V. Goullock, end.

Pennsylvania

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 2.—One of Penn's biggest soccer games of the season will be played next Saturday with Princeton at Franklin Field. For the last two years the Red and Blue and Tigers have fought some remarkable soccer matches.

"Post" Miller, captain of the football team, who wound up his gridiron career in the Cornell game on Thursday, will next turn to basketball. He played a guard position last year, and will doubtless be back in the Cornell team, which is another football player. He is paired off with Miller at guard on the floor.

Coach Lawson Robertson of the Penn track team expects Elmer McLane, who finished fifth in the recent intercollegiate championship run, to be a star in the various indoor meets this winter. McLane did remarkably well over the boards in New York, Boston and Baltimore last season, and "Robbie" believes he will improve in his second season.

Penn alumni from all parts of the country flocked back to Franklin Field on Thanksgiving to see the Penn-Cornell battle. Included in the list were Mike Sweeney, former Red and Blue basketball captain, who came from Buffalo; Abby Paul, president of the 1921 engineering class, who is now in Harrisburg; Ralph Walte, former wrestling captain, who is now in Cleveland, and many more.

Penn's 1923 football captain will be elected in another week. Among the most prominent candidates are Johnny Dorn, the center; Frank Sutherland, right tackle, and "Tex" Hamer. There is a strong sentiment in favor of Dorn, the Salt Lake City boy.

Financially the last season has been the most successful in Penn football history. All the games were played at home, and at several of the contests more than 45,000 persons paid admission. The management has already realized that even the new stadium is entirely too small for the big games.

Harvard

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 2.—All the football men swear by Eddie Cantor, the comedian. Eddie told them last week if they defeated Yale he would reserve boxes for them at his Boston show. Eddie did, and they gave him the ball used against the Yells and he was photographed sharing it with Capt. Buel in a group picture.

Charlton MacVeach, Corlies Lamont and Fritz Schwars are near the end of their competition for managing editor of the Crimson. The records show the contest very close.

Beky Clark, varsity center, will leave college after midyear, proceed West to his wife and baby girl and will then return in the fall to take up the study of law.

George Owen has promised his Sunday school class that he will never fall them again. He took Sunday off after the strenuous games against Yale and the boys were disappointed. Ted Crosby and Coach Clark Macomber teach in the same Sunday school.

Phil Robb, appointed second assistant manager, had a brother, Hamilton, who served in the same position. Robb will manage the tilt in the Yale Bowl in 1924.

John T. Edsall is to be editor in chief of the Godfrey, the latest collegiate publication. The magazine will be devoted to constructive thought, is sponsored by the Liberal Club.

George Owen has had his brief holiday between sports, and with his final gridiron season tucked away will commence tomorrow afternoon his duties as captain of the Harvard hockey team. This big boy is easily one of the best college athletes ever developed. He can play hockey just as brilliantly as he does football, he is a great first baseman as well as captain of the nine, and he could easily turn his hand to track and be successful.

Another football man who promises to make his presence felt on the rink this winter is Jack Hammond, who started in the football eleven this fall, and in the field against Yale last Saturday. He is a very strong skater and particularly fast and may be transferred to the forward line.

The hockey season will open Wednesday, December 13, with Boston University, and the game will be played at the Boston Arena. One week later Tech may be the Harvard opponent, but the first big game is booked for January 4 against the crack University of Toronto team.

The eleven has rid itself of the overconfidence which was apparent in the first league game with Cornell, which was won by the Ithacans. Haverford, Harvard and Yale have all fallen before the Tiger attack as the eleven gather its stride and improved its teamwork, and the team was further strengthened this week by the return of Charlie Woodbridge, star forward.

The Hobe Baker Memorial Rink was to have been formally opened here yesterday, but water shortage interfered with the plans of Manager Frank Ferguson, and the rink will not be thrown open until some time next week. Joe Moore and Bobby Hearn, international speed skaters, will give exhibitions on the opening day.

Candidates for the Varsity and Freshman hockey teams met last night, when plans for the coming season were outlined. Capt. Howell Van Gerbig will inaugurate practice this week and it is planned to open the season a week from next Friday with an exhibition match, with either the St. Nicholas Club of New York, of which Hobe Baker was a member, or the P. Paul's Alumni of Philadelphia.

Coach Hill Zahn is grooming a large basketball squad in preparation for the coming season, which will begin on Monday. All of last year's championship quintet are in uniform, but the Tiger mentor realizes that the job of beating Penn this winter will be harder than ever and he has a keen eye peeled for new material with which to round out the team.

C. C. N. Y.

The numbers given to the members of the varsity basketball squad, considered especially significant since last year the first five men started every game, are as follows: 1, Capt. Red Klauber; 2, "Doc" Hamilton; 3, Jack Nadel; 4, Archie Hahn; 5, Jim Curran; 6, Frank Salz; 7, Palitz; 8, "Pinky" Match; 9, Jack Schitterman; 10, Ben Perlman; 11, "Doc" Fraser; 12, Joe Moses; 13, Behnhart; 14, Patterson; 15, Heyrick.

The C. C. N. Y. interclass water polo tournament will close this Thursday when the Red and Blue teams battle for the title in the final round. The seniors rely on their varsity men to gain victory for them.

Holy Cross

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. WORCESTER, Mass., Dec. 1.—After the rehearsal on Friday the Holy Cross Dramatic Society selected the cast for the production of "Macbeth," which will take place immediately after the Christmas holidays. John Taylor Breen, '23, of New York city will take the part of Macbeth. Breen made a big hit last season and has been assisting in the coaching of the present cast. "Hamlet" will be put on later.

The basketball team in having three seasons a week. There are several promising candidates, members of the gridiron squad, who will report this week.

Coach Sullivan has posted a notice for all varsity track men to report on Tuesday. There is some promising material in the freshman class, as was noted during its fall class meet. The outdoor board track will be laid this week and the varsity and freshman relay candidates will work outdoors daily.

The football picture will be taken this coming week and a captain for 1923 elected. The compulsory football class, as was noted during its fall class meet, will be held. Varsity and scrubs will attend with the coaching staff managers and assistants. This is given yearly as a token of appreciation to the boys who have helped boost the football team.

Yale

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. NEW HAVEN, Dec. 2.—Charlie O'Hearn of Yale and George Owen of Harvard. The fates have decreed that these two great athletes should cross each other's paths about as frequently as any two athletes ever were known to. The athletic careers of these two stars have been practically identical, the only difference being that Owen is a jump ahead of O'Hearn, who will be graduated next June while the pride of Yale, now being a junior, will have almost two years more here.

Owen was one of two outstanding stars in Harvard's backfield for two years and O'Hearn is just about Yale's best. Owen plays first base on the Harvard varsity baseball team and O'Hearn holds down the same position for the Yale team. The series and O'Hearn's bat in a decade, while O'Hearn is far and away the fastest man on the Yale team has claimed since the war.

The two have met on the gridiron twice, with the honors in favor of the Harvard man, but on the baseball field O'Hearn has the advantage. Last spring Yale won the series and O'Hearn's bat was one of the principal factors in the downfall of the Crimson team. Last winter just as he was getting into form in the ice O'Hearn was injured in the knees and the injury prevented his playing against Harvard. Otherwise the two would have met in a battle royal on skates.

This year O'Hearn will be out again for hockey and his college mates are pulling for him to go through the season without being hurt.

Several of Yale's varsity football players are going into some branch of indoor athletics this winter and have already begun training for places on different teams. Benches, Cochrane, Cutler, Haas, Jones, Luman, Neale and Warner of gridiron fame are out for basketball and are getting into shape in the gymnasium.

O'Hearn and Norris are among the football men on the hockey squad, while MacKay, substitute tackle, is Yale's best heavyweight wrestler and is now flinging opponents around the gym floor under the watchful eye of Izzy Winslow. The Yale News this week announced the election of three men to the board. They are Arthur C. Walworth '20, 1925, of Newton Centre, Mass.; Charles W. Bell, 1925, S. of Scranton, Pa., and Symon B. Tucker, 1925, S. of Ansonia, Conn.

Dartmouth

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. HANOVER, N. H., Dec. 2.—Dartmouth has started its drive for the intercollegiate basketball race and the varsity squad is practicing daily under the direction of George Zahn, who is beginning his fourth year as coach of Green court teams. The candidates are remaining in Hanover over the Thanksgiving recess and probably one or two games will be played before the Christmas vacation. The entire schedule will be announced next week.

Among the most promising candidates for the team are: Forwards, Capt. Timmy Cullen, third high scorer in the league last year; Don Moore, letter man and center on the football eleven this fall, and Kai Friedman, freshman forward a year ago; centers, Mike Watkins of last year's squad and Eddie Edwards, pivot man of the 1921 freshman five; guards, Joe Miller, leader of last season's varsity; Frank Heep, letter man for two years; Al Goldstein, center and guard a year ago, and Sallor and Goas, guards on last year's freshman five.

Four inch ice on Faculty Pond has given Dartmouth undergraduates their first skating of the winter and if the cold weather continues Capt. Jack Osborne will make the first call for varsity hockey candidates the first part of next week.

Eddie Shevlin, waterweight champion of New England, will return to Hanover Monday to resume his duties as instructor of boxing at Dartmouth. This will mark Shevlin's fourth year in this capacity.

Williams

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Dec. 2.—Considerable anxiety prevails here over reports from New York to the effect that Columbia may engage Percy Wendell as football coach for next year. The old Harvard star has built up a substantial system during the two years that he has been in charge at Williams, and no effort will be spared to retain his services.

Clark has been groomed to fill Barnes's place at center, with Robinson and Weber, first string men, left at guard and tackle on one side of the line. King, Farnsworth, Cole and Suraban, the first named a member of the freshman team this fall, will be grooming forwards.

The Purple retains both Healy and Pease, but has added to the line also Lee, Fisher and Wilson, substitutes, on the wings. Basketball practice is being held regularly here, with Coach Guerdon Messer in charge of the squad. Boynton and Pease, two veterans, and Fisher, the most likely choice for center, will not be able to get into the game until after the holidays, however, because of injuries met in football.

Rutgers

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD. NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Dec. 2.—A new indoor sport has been discovered on the banks of the Raritan. It is congregating every afternoon from 5 o'clock in Ballantine gymnasium and listening to Frank Hill coach the basketball team. Some two or three hundred students are enjoying this pastime daily.

And as a "batter out" of players, particularly veterans who are wont to get a bit chafed, Hill has no peer. On Hill's team, often the captain, has to earn his job, and this year Eddie Benzoni, the Rutgers leader, has not escaped Hill's caustic remarks occasionally. Hill has hardly spoken above a whisper since he began practice a month ago. He can't, for his voice has reached the "foghorn" stage and is getting weaker.
